

Pennsylvania Golfers Win in Lesley Cup Match---Enthusiasts Brave Rain at Two Local Horse Shows

PENNSYLVANIA GOLFERS DOWN MASSACHUSETTS

After Leading in Foursomes Boston Team Is Badly Beaten in Singles.

METROPOLITAN TEAM FINDS VETERANS EASY

Lesley Cup Matches Played on Merion Links in Wretched Weather

By JOHN G. ANDERSON.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—Despite the elements of rain and wind, which made the play on the first day of the Lesley Cup matches on the links of the Merion Cricket Club most disagreeable, there was excitement in the morning when the golfers in the morning for after being beaten in the morning by four matches to one, Pennsylvania ran true to predicted form and by taking no less than seven of the singles matches turned a seeming defeat into a decisive victory. The final score was 8 to 7, in favor of the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh players.

The other contest, tried out for the first time, resulted in a win for the Metropolitan team of players over the so-called veterans by the wide margin of 11 to 4.

The golf displayed to-day was as good as could be expected considering the weather conditions. Merion was a splendid test of the game, there being few fairs in the course. The greens were in good shape and ran fairly true at all times, there was no faulting by any of the players concerning the distances at the holes and it is quite likely that any movement toward securing the national amateur for Merion next year will meet with the approval of the golfers entered in the Lesley cup this year.

The morning play between Massachusetts and Pennsylvania was close, and of the four contests Massachusetts won three, losing at the twentieth hole in the other. Raymond Omet, brother of the former national champion, was teamed up with J. H. Sullivan against Howard W. Perrin and George A. Crump. The match was all even when both balls were on the hole, but the Philadelphia players yards inside. But Omet, with the putting instinct of his brother, maybe, only ran down a third putt for a 4 and then he saw the putt made and it never wavered an inch from the true line, which showed the nerve and the confidence behind the shot.

Then a match where P. W. Whittemore and H. H. Wilder played against C. B. Buxton and M. E. Myers, it looked as if Pennsylvania was in for a win at the twentieth hole. But the latter held the putt for a grand 3 and then the opponents took three putts, which lost them the match, as the last hole was halved in par.

Francis Omet and Rodney Brown were in no danger at any time in the morning, winning easily from W. C. Fowles, Jr., and G. A. Ormiston by 5 up and 3 to play, while P. W. Estabrook and W. C. Chick of Boston won by 6 and 5. The only win for the Pennsylvania was where R. S. Worthington and J. N. Stearns 34 made away with the par at the second extra hole and won from K. S. Sterne and R. Hornbrower.

The afternoon saw many fine matches and several might well have gone all the way. Not one of these contests fell to the Massachusetts players, which was all the more remarkable since the Boston men have usually been fine finishers.

The best match of the day was that in which Fowles gained revenge for his defeat at Manchester last year by winning from Francis Omet at the first extra hole. Both players were a little off on the putts, Fowles missing a fifteen inch one at the sixteenth, but while Omet was 82, Fowles was 81, and the day in account. The match found Omet 2 up at the turn only to be defeated at the thirteenth.

The Fowles players forged to the front and was up with 3 to play, but lost the advantage by the time they fell off for the home hole. This was halved in 3 and then after good taking, Fowles was all over when Omet pulled his drive into a bush to the left of the green and was forced to lose a stroke in getting out.

HORSES GO OVER JUMPS WITH ZEST DESPITE RAIN

Second Day's Events of Piping Rock Show Featured by Display of Enthusiasm Under Dismal Conditions—Young Alexander Double Victor.

LOCUST VALLEY, L. I., Oct. 1.—Inclement weather held no terrors for the officials of the Piping Rock horse show and in spite of a steady rain the second day's programme of the show was run off to-day with the exception of two events left over in the hope of more favorable conditions to-morrow.

The proficiency of the competitors in the contests which called for jumping was remarkable and the only serious mishap was that which resulted in Miss Lida L. Fleitmann breaking her leg in the light-weight hunters' class that closed the afternoon session. Throughout the afternoon the horses trained to cross-country work manipulated the fences in a manner that drew forth the admiration of the critical observers, and at least half a dozen perfect performances marked the trials over the course, which were held in the morning.

Children held the attention of the small crowd that braved the elements in the morning, the young riders of the division Master Archibald S. Alexander carried off the honors. In both saddle and harness classes for ponies not exceeding thirteen hands the riders carried off the honors, and the last was the only juvenile to carry off two blues.

A taste of the exciting moments to follow was provided for the closing class of the morning, which was for hunters owned and ridden by officers. The turf was very slippery when the competition began and many of the early performers cut queer capers as they approached the jumps. There were a few spectators who remembered the doughty doings of Daniel D. Pullen as a member of the West Point football team. There was a continuance of the Hickock class and two of the four decided fell to the mistress of Broadhollow. SHOW HORSES VOI IN THE MUD SPILLS IN THE MUD

Miss Clemence Croft's Entrants Win Five Blues and a Red at White Plains.

ONLY ONE CLASS FAILS

WHITE PLAINS, Oct. 1.—In spite of the rain, mud and cold horse men and women supported the Westchester County Horse Show well this afternoon. Only one class on the programme failed.

That was for police horses. The harness horses, saddle ponies and hunters all went through the paces.

There were two classes for hunters, and although the ground was very slippery and the takeoff at the jumps had there were no spills. Once old Confidence while cantering between the jumps slipped and almost rolled over.

He was smothered with mud, but recovered and took the other jumps in fine style. This was in the Corinthian class. The riders were in hunt uniform. The Model, Rock Crest and Confidence represented the Richmond County Hunt and Sister the Fairfield county hounds, of which Charles D. Lanier, owner of Sister, is the master. The first prize went to The Model, owned by Miss Clemence Croft. Sister took the red ribbon.

The other jumping event was for ladies hunters. Miss Vera Cornell's Rock Crest was the winner. Confidence was second and Heartland third. Each horse was well ridden by Miss M. L. Thompson of the Rock School.

Miss Clemence Croft had a banner day. Her horses won five blues and one red ribbon. The Monk, a handsome gelding, secured three firsts in the classes for saddle horses and in one hackney breed mare. Her dam is Eastern Star. Mr. Thompson carried her to the national show next month. Nestle-down Astoria is a particularly fine hackney bred mare. Her dam is Eastern Star. MISS BJURSTEDT IS LONGWOOD WINNER

Defeated Mrs. Wightman in Final Round and Meets Miss Rotch in Challenge Match.

TAKES LAST SET EASILY

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 1.—Miss Mollie Bjurstedt, national women's tennis champion, to-day defeated Mrs. George W. Wightman, who as Miss Hotchkiss, was the title holder of America. In the final round of the open tournament at Longwood, Miss Bjurstedt won from Mrs. Wightman in a three set contest. To-morrow the winner meets Miss Edith Rotch in the challenge match.

The Boston woman made a good fight in the first two sets. While the score was 5-2 in Mrs. Wightman's favor in the first, Miss Bjurstedt took three games in a row, but five errors by the latter made it games all. The girl took the next game on her service and the deciding one by three placement shots. Mrs. Wightman showed signs of fatigue in the second set, because of the fast pace, but she fought gamely and overcame a lead of 4-1. With the score 5-4 in Mrs. Wightman's favor her opponent took the next two games of the set. Then Miss Bjurstedt lost a love game, but she immediately got enough stung into her to regain the lead.

Miss Bjurstedt was charged with eight errors in the fourth and fifth games, so that Mrs. Wightman took the lead 6-5. A placement and net put the Boston woman within striking distance of the set, but her serve hit the top of the net and rolled toward Miss Bjurstedt. The second stroke was over the net, but went as a service ace when the two balls collided and went off at different angles.

Miss Bjurstedt thought this was an ill omen, but struggled to overcome this lead of 4-0. She did succeed in carrying the game at 5-3 and the set at 6-7. Miss Bjurstedt had the stamina and took the third set easily.

Mrs. Wightman and Harry C. Johnson, the mixed doubles champions, defeated Miss Bjurstedt and I. C. Wright in the mixed doubles final. The match was decided in twenty-two and a half minutes, a record for Longwood. The summaries:
